SHELTON RESIGNED OLD AGE SUPR.

AUSTIN, Texas.—Acting Director Orville S. Carpenter of the Texas Old Age Assistance Commission this week announced appointment of Homer Brelsford, at present assistant district supervisor, to the position of supervisor of District 13.

Brelsford's appointment was announced following notice that J. O. Shelton, present district supervisor, has resigned effective Feb. 15. At that time Brelsford will take office.

Shelton stated he was returning to private life to take care of his business interests in Abilene and that he would be engaged in the private loan business.

Brelsford has been with the pension commission since the Old Age Assistance Law went into effect Feb. 14, 1936. He worked at the state headquarters in Austin until September, 1936, when he went to Abilene as assistant district supervisor. He was formerly engaged in the banking business at Eastland.

Counties in District 13 are the following: Callhan, Coke, Eastland, Fisher, Jones, Nolan, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor.

THE BUSY BEES

The club met with Mrs. Johnnie Agnew as the regular meeting day was so bad, part of the club waited until Monday. There were about eighteen present in all.

The next meeting will be at Mrs. Duttons Tuesday, Feb. 16. We have some new members at each meeting; we always welcome them and visitors.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT

Mr. and Mrs. Brodie Cain and children had a serious car accident on Monday of last week. They were coming home from Dallas and about eight miles west of Breckenridge another car came meeting them and crowded them into a bridge.

Mrs. Cain was cut on the chin and bruised on the forehead, being thrown into the door on her side. Five stitches were required at a Breckenridge hospital. None of the others were hurt but the car was badly wrecked.

The following officers were elected: Miss Louise Jenkins, President, Miss Eula Fudge, V-Pres., Miss Verlie Joe Buner, Secretary, Miss Mable Hill, Reporter.

The following girls joined the club Friday: Misses Maxine Smith, Neva Dell Neill, Eula Fudge, Verlie Jo Bruner, Christine Jenkins, Louise Jenkins, Lillie Bell Grimes, Jackie Barton, Willie Fay Neill, Dorothy Nell Jenkins, Juanita Bunner, and Mable Hill.

The girls of Bethel School 4-H Club will meet again, Friday, February 26, with Miss Day, at the Bethel School. We hope they enjoy all their meetings and will work hard to co-operate with Miss Day.

ATTENDED GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION OF PARENTS

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Gardner and children, accompanied by Ed Gardner and family, of Tuxedo, went to Meridian Saturday to attend the celebration of the Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. Gardner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gardner, which was held at their home in Meridian Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are parents of ten children, all of whom were present for this celebration. Besides the children, there were a number of grand children and other relatives who were with them for this happy occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are former Jones County residents. They came to this county in 1902, and settled in the Fairview community where they made their home for about eighteen years, before moving to their present home in Meridian.

Less Monthly Discomfort

Many women, who formerly suffered from a weak, run-down condition as a result of poor assimilation of food, say they benefited by taking CARDUI, a special medicine for women. They found it helped to increase the appetite and improve digestion, thereby bringing them more strength from their food.

Naturally there is less discomfort at monthly periods when the system has been strengthened and the various functions restored and regulated.

Cardui, praised by thousands of women, is well worth trying. Of course, if not benefited, consult a physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Brodie Cain went to Dallas on Sunday, February 7, to attend the marriage of Miss Mary Lou Hendricks and Mr. T. S. Jones of Dallas. This young woman formerly worked for Mr. and Mrs. Cain in Hamlin.

MRS. BURNS BUYS THE A. & S. RAILWAY DEPOT

The Abilene and Southern is fast passing away. The old depot was purchased by Mrs. E. R. Burns, proprietress of the Model Hotel, and already it is being dismantled and will likely be moved to Abilene where a residence will be constructed of the materials. She got the building at a bargain.

The track wrecking crew is pulling up the rails and ties in a rapid manner and should be into the country by next week. This is going to return a lot of good cotton land to the county when it is all back into farms.

Miss Sadie Hatfield, state supervisor of Landscape Gardening from A. & M. College, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Tegart on Friday of last week. She accompanied Mr. and Mrs. McHaney of Sylvester, all old friends of Mr. Tegart.

CORRECT WAY OF BUMPING A FRIEND'S CAR TO START IT

YOUR car that is going to do the pushing should be in LOW gear.

The car ahead that you are going to push should be in HIGH gear, with the clutch pedal DOWN.

If possible, get in position where one side of the car behind is about in line with center of the car ahead. This helps if bumpers lock. Car with bumper on top should try to get over the edge of a curb or other high spot that lifts bumper and permits parting. Or the same thing can be accomplished if car with bumper on bottom is maneuvered to a low drain or other depression in the street.

Tell your friend not to let his clutch pedal up until you actually have his car MOVING.

At best this is hard on your car, but it is a friendly act that you would not deny a fellow motorist marooned by cold. He has troubles enough of his own . . . with a freshly-killed battery . . . flooded engine . . . and sheepish feeling—to say nothing of wasted gasoline.

If you push long enough his engine may finally start, just as it would have done in the very first place, on Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze—the same sort of Winter friend that you are. Continental Oil Company

St. Louis, Missouri,

Mr. Tate May, Chairman
Hamlin Branch,
Anson Chapter
Hamlin, Texas.

Mr. dear Mr. May:

This will acknowledge, with sincere appreciation, receipt of two remittances which you forwarded from Hamlin totaling $375.98. These remittances represent contributions for relief work in the flood area and have been placed to the credit of the Anson Chapter disaster contribution. The list of contributors with which you furnished me, will be returned to you if you have not kept a carbon copy.

The manner in which communities and chapters in the middle west have responded to the appeal for flood relief has been a source of inspiration to all members of the National staff. On behalf of the flood refugees whom we are serving, I should like to convey to you an expression of appreciation. Will you please pass this on to the many volunteers of Hamlin who have contributed to the successful result of the appeal for funds.

Sincerely yours,

VISITING FROM DETROIT

Mr. and Mrs. J. Shaw and daughters, Jane and Nancy, of Detroit, Michigan, have been visiting in the home of W. C. Lee, near McCaulley. Mrs. Shaw was Pauline Adams, formerly of Hamlin. The Adams Bros. run the furniture store where Mr. May's building now stands. She says parts of Hamlin still look familiar though its grown and is a much nicer town than when she lived here.

Mr. Shaw said the strike there had been much worse than we heard it was, though he thinks it is going to be settled without any more fighting.

The work Mr. Shaw does has to be in spring and summer as its so cold up there.—Contributed.

DEATHS IN TEXAS

CAUSED BY FIRE

Fire has taken a staggering death toll in Texas for the past fifteen years. Fire is a dreadful menace to both our lives and property. Approximately 52 per cent of the fire losses paid by insurance companies doing business in Texas for the years 1920 to 1935, inclusive, were losses that occurred in the home, and more than three-fourths of the deaths from fire occur in the home, which means that a large proportion of all fires and most of the deaths occur in homes.

During the year 1936 more than 450 men, women and children lost their lives from fire (Exact number of deaths in 1936 not yet available, and since 1922 to 1936, inclusive, more than 4,900 men, women and children have lost their lives from fire.

Most of the fires that occur in the home are from simple and easily preventable causes. Likewise, most of the deaths that occur from fires are from simple and easily preventable causes.

Deaths from fire can be greatly reduced by putting into practice simple rules of "Safety" as set forth under the caption of

"FIFTEEN FIRE CAUTIONS"

1. Keep children and fire safely apart. Children can be taught the dangers of fire. Keep matches out of the way of children.

2. Do not throw away cigars, cigarettes and matches without first extinguishing them. A careless smoker is as bad as an electric storm to burn the buildings.

3. Do not allow accumulations of combustible waste materials in or near the house. Without them fires from carelessly discarded smoking materials would be less frequent.

4. Keep chimneys and stovepipes clean, with all joints and connections tight. Provide separate metal cans for ashes and rubbish. Never mix.

5. Place substantial fire-resistant guard in front of all woodwork close to sources of heat. The open flames of gas, kerosene, alcohol and gasoline stoves should be particularly shielded.

6. Keep greasy and oily rags in tightly closed metal can provided for that purpose.

7. Avoid the filling of lighted lamps. Avoid the use of kerosene to light or quicken fires. The application of heat to kerosene results in the generation of gases which are very explosive.

8. Do not use gasoline, naphtha, or benzene for cleaning. Use some of the safer solutions now obtainable and these, in any considerable quantity, out of doors and during the day.

9. Keep all open flames away from gas leaks. Explosive mixture of gas and air are quickly formed in such places, and they only need a lighted match or taper to cause disastrous results.

10. Avoid hanging lace curtains and other draperies near gas jets, or other open flames. The draft from nearby windows may cause fires quick to spread and difficult to extinguish.

11. Avoid toy wax candles. Each year a number of deaths of children due to placing candles on Christmas trees produces a sad ending for an otherwise joyful season.

12. Never leave babies alone in the house—not even a minute where there is a lighted lamp or open fire.

13. This is an age of electricity—let's learn to use it with safety. Permit only experienced persons to install or repair electrical fittings and appliances. There are definite rules for wiring, which if known and observed will prevent electrical fires. Keep a supply of fuses on hand. Do not use a penny for a fuse. When a fuse burns out replace it with a new one.

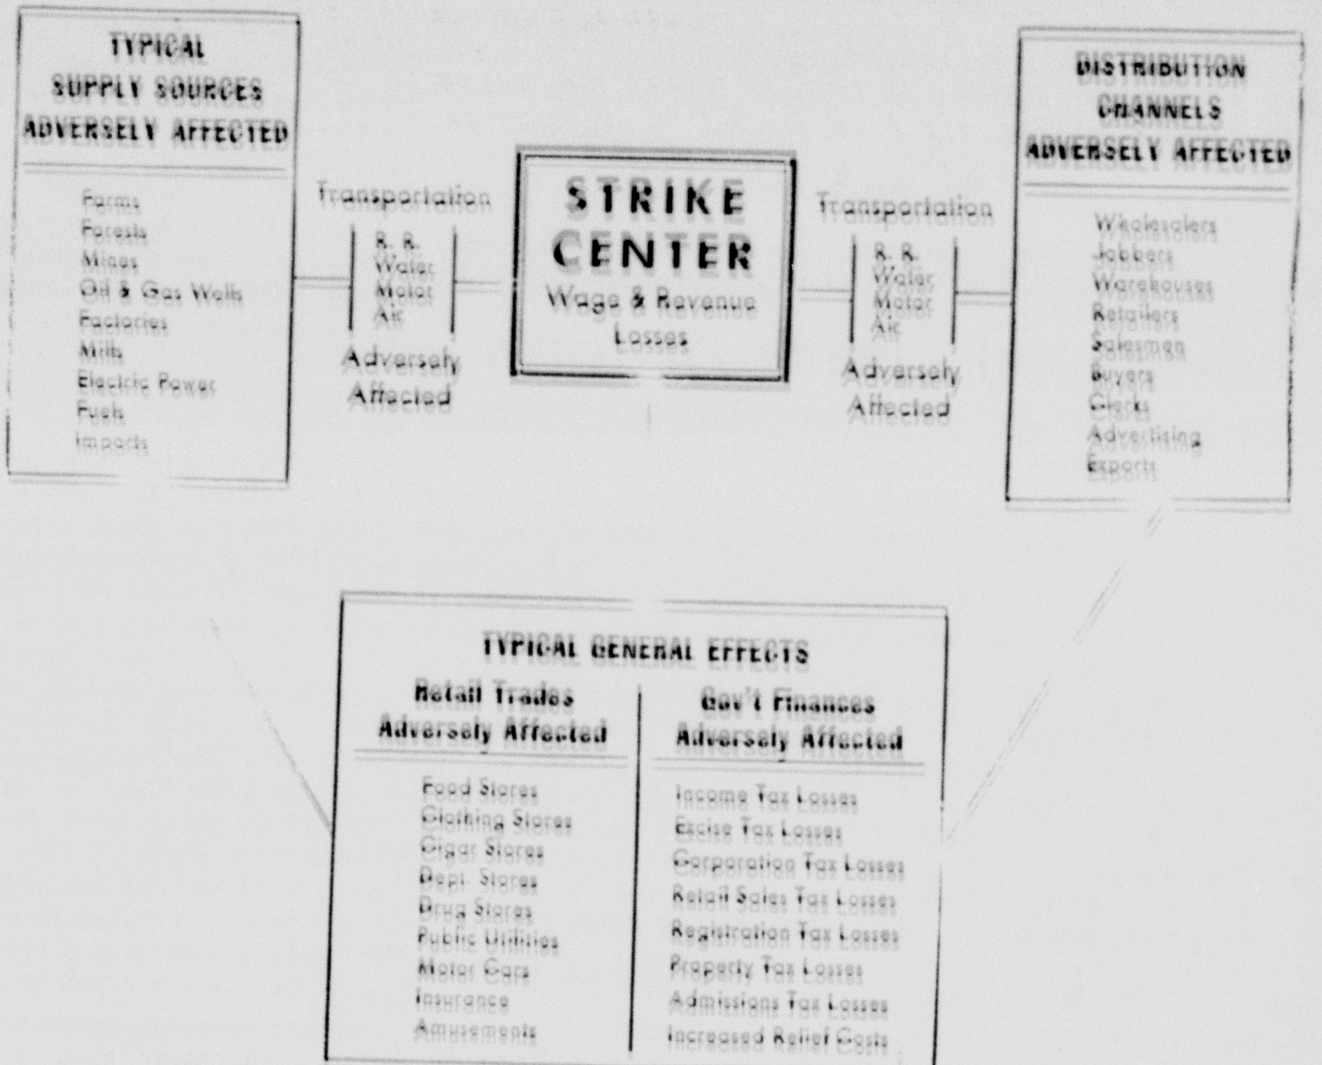

14. Turn the current off on an electrical pressing iron or other electrical appliance before leaving it.

15. Two good safety points: (A) Make it a point to know how to get out of every building you enter. (B) Never sit in a closed room or office. Always ventilate with fresh air. These two precautions may mean the saving of your life and of others in case of fire.

Only a fool thinks that alcohol is bottled brain.
The "eternal triangle" is often bounded by crooked lines.

TYPICAL EFFECTS OF A STRIKE IN ANY MAJOR INDUSTRY

The chart above shows how the chief effects of a strike begin in the center, and spread in all directions. It is the supply sources, cancellation orders for raw and semi-finished materials and equipment tend to create additional unemployment and lost business in ever-widening circles to distribution channels sales.

employment, and income fall on many or less sharply. Transportation revenues shrink. Continued business and then pocketbooks at the strike center. In the supply sources, and distribution and transportation channels result in generally reduced retail trade. Smaller tax collections, increased relief burdens. This picture of the long trail of losses, even much simplified as it is, indicates why economists cannot estimate in advance the total cost of a strike. Studies of the losses from previous strikes show that their total cost amounts to anywhere from 5 to 100 times the value of wages lost by men thrown out of work at the strike center itself.

COMMENT — The Herald would smile, is sure to affect many activities of public life. If a controversy is bound to happen, some agreeable means of keeping the wheels turning, should be found, while final settlements are being made. If not business is paralyzed, and think of what the Marine Strike cost the country, as well as that of the automobile controversy.

CAR OWNERS SHOULD

ANSWER QUESTIONS

The car owners of Jones County can aid tremendously in furnishing official information to the State Federal Highway Planning Survey for use in working out a logical plan on which future 1938 and succeeding construction will be based. Mr. R. L. Burwoudt, the Assessor and Collector of Taxes, has been given a number of post cards which ask for fundamental information that is needed in road planning, thus affording the motorist opportunity to participate in outlining his future road program. These cards, to be distributed to car owners as they pay their 1937 registration fees, require no postage and are self addressed. The number of cards which have been furnished Mr. Burwoudt was judged according to the number of motor vehicles which were registered in the County during 1936.

The number of cards allotted to Jones County is as follows: 6400 for passenger automobiles, 1256 for trucks, and 126 for trailers and motorcycles, and 90 for owners of five or more vehicles.

Pickie Fame

YOUNG E. ALLEN was a famous Kentucky journalist, a writer of short stories and novels, a nationally known bibliophile. Yet he is remembered, not for all these achievements, but because he took a quatrain quoted in Stevenson's "Treasure Island" and built it into one of the most famous poems ever written. He called it "The Heretic" but perhaps you remember it best for those unforgettable lines—"Fifteen men on a dead man's chest—Yo-ho-ho and a bottle of rum!"

Langdon Smith was one of the best reporters and rewrite men New York city ever knew. He was a noted war correspondent in Cuba in 1906. And his newspaper writings are forgotten while thousands are familiar with a poem which he wrote and which was appeared buried along the waterline in the old New York Morning Journal. "Evolution" he called it and it began:

When you were a tadpole and I was a fish
In the Paleozoic Age . . .

Frederick P. Lattimer was a syndicated reporter and editorial writer of several Connecticut dailies. One day in 1911 he came into his office so early that he could hardly see the typewriter keys to write an eight-line poem which he popped into his mind. It is thought anyone could quote from an American he has written, but thousands of Americans at one time or another have repeated his single beginning:

I wish I were a little more
A little more . . .

Dr. Clement C. Moore was a professor of Greek and Hebrew in the General Theological Seminary in New York city and author of the best known and most widely known poem published in America—a religious work which he hoped would make him famous. But that hope is forgotten and he is remembered for what he considered some "lively verses" which he wrote for his children. "A Visit From St. Nicholas" he called it but it is beloved by American children as the poem which begins "Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house . . ."

Perhaps you would like to know something about this (Edward Hines Jr. Hospital) or perhaps you already know; if you do, let me repeat. It is in just a few miles of the city limits of Chicago. The main hospital is 2040 feet long and 50 feet wide and four stories high; the buildings and equipment are valued at fifteen million dollars. They claim to have more radium here than any one place in the world. They have patients here from every state in the Union. Have over 1700 beds and I want to add if they have any vacant I have not found them.

Suspect it would startle one if he could watch the patients that are discharged from here. A fellow that did not know the circumstances would think too large a portion of them left in a "Flag Draped Carrier" but one must remember quite a few of these men have been sent from other hospitals because that hospital had done all they could for them. That being the case, a high death rate should be expected.

It may interest you to know I am "billed" for my operation Monday or Tuesday. I realize I have a hard battle but I feel like the prayers and good wishes of all your Hamlin people will be with me. Personally I am going to try to march into it with the same kind of courage as we had when we marched toward Metz in the St. Mehel Drive and also our march through that Argonne Forest back in 1918. No doubt quite a few of us boys would not have to be battling so for our health now if we had not been in those above mentioned marches. While I am on the subject I want to say we fought those battles in a true Missionary Spirit; to us that was a war to end wars and to win the world for democracy. Judging by the rumors and preparations for war today and judging by the form of Government some of our sister nations have today, all I can say is I am afraid we were deceived and perhaps we were not so victorious as we thought, but anyway we fought a good fight and quite a few of us are still fighting.

Give my regards to all our friends. Tell them perhaps it will be several months before I can come back to Hamlin, but my intentions are to come back.

HITSON 4-H CLUB

"Dead chicks pay no bills," said Mrs. Gray, the sponsor of the Hitson Girls 4-H Club on Feb. 12. Mrs. Gray gave a most interesting lecture on growing baby chicks and in conclusion, she said, "Diarrhea is not a disease but a symptom of the derangement of the digestive organs. Diarrhea in chicks may be caused by such irregularities as faulty feeding, crowding and exposure to extreme temperatures and over heating and chilling which produce a congestion in the intestines and lungs. Eating litter and other indigestible matter induces cases of diarrhea in young chicks. When diarrhea of this kind makes its appearance, the brooding and feeding practices should be checked to find the cause."

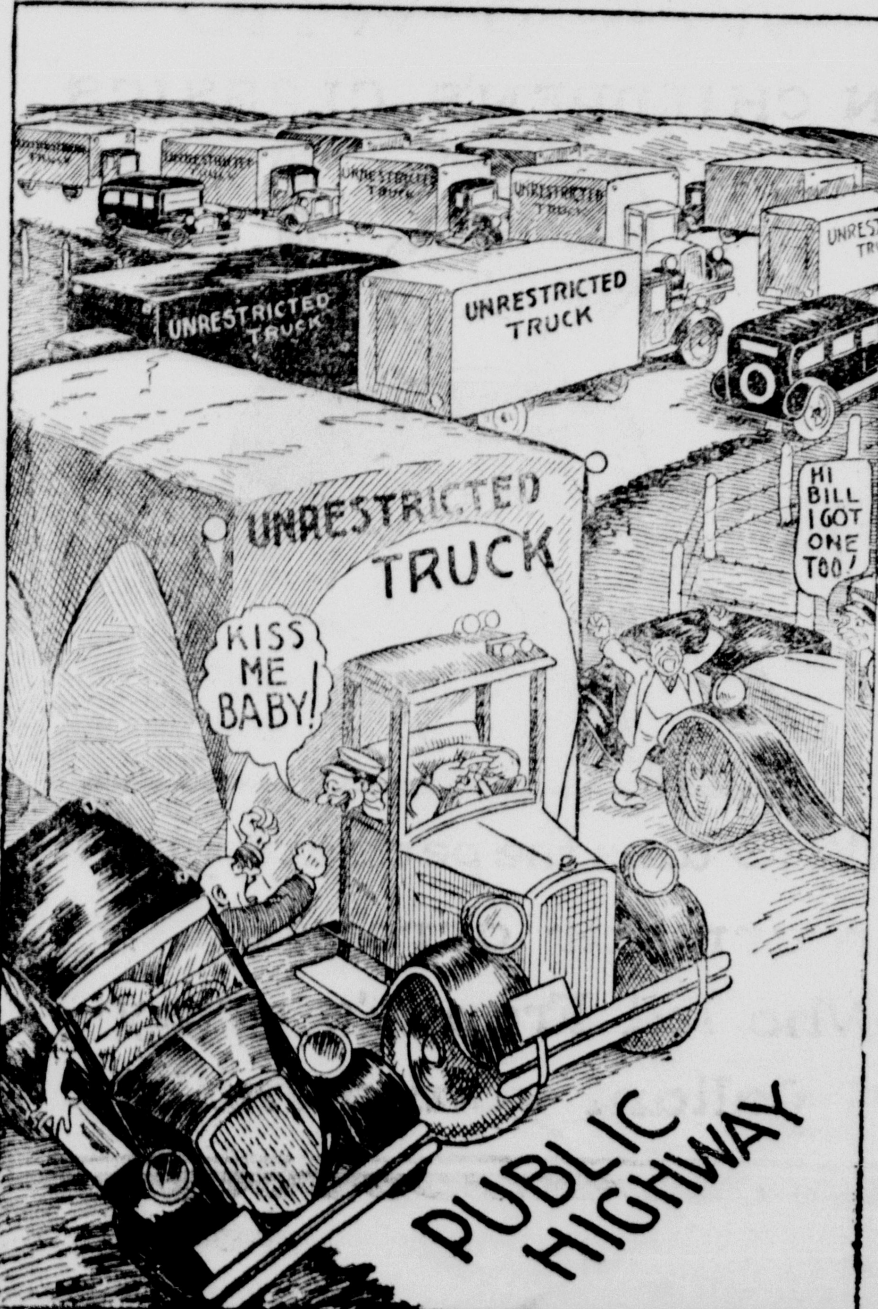

There were twenty regular members present with the addition of four new members, namely Pilar Lupe, Tommy Lopez, and Nicolaza Vazquez. While Mrs. Gray gave the lecture on raising chicks we worked on hems, in the form of hemming cup towels. Our next meeting will be Feb. 18.

IT'S YOUR MOVE!

SAFETY---OR THIS?

DEATH, in the guise of heavily loaded motor trucks, rides the highways of Texas every day and every night. The toll of human death and injury of these vehicles is appalling.

In the five-year period, 1932 to 1936, inclusive, trucks in Texas have participated in 8,416 highway accidents in which 2,155 persons were killed and 11,962 injured. In 1936 alone, their record stood 2,208 accidents with 3,323 persons injured and 576 killed. These actual records of people killed, as shown by Texas newspapers, compared with the number of deaths resulting from all motor vehicle accidents, as given by the Bureau of Vital Statistics in Austin, show that the average Texas truck participates in twice as many fatal accidents as the average passenger car.

The right to grant, condition or deny the use of the highways for profit, belongs to you, the people of Texas, notwithstanding the attempts of the operators of B/G trucks to take it away and give it to the federal government instead. Your present laws, limiting the size, weight and speed of trucks, were enacted by reason of your insistence, and by your insistence they have remained on the statute books. Their amendment would serve the sole purpose of increasing the profits of operators of the B/G trucks, with the certain results of also increasing the mounting injuries, deaths and property losses now taking place on your highways.

Public welfare and public safety demand that existing highway regulations shall be retained and enforced.

NOT ALL AMERICAN WIVES ARE GOOD SPORTS

George grinned affectionately at her would be pretty hard on her, her tantrum and conceded that it and that was the end of that.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

AS A class, American wives are poor sports. Studying them and their problems, year after year, one is forced to the depressing conclusion that most of them are but half-developed as human beings, and that in any change or crisis they are notably poor sports.

There are exceptions, of course. The exceptions are the fine mothers and wives who live out their lives in big cities or country towns or lonely farms, solve their difficulties with courage and imagination, and never trouble anyone for advice or sympathy.

There are, thank God, millions of these. One hears little of them, but they exist in their legions. They are the heart and soul and sinew of tomorrow's America, the hope of the nation.

But there are millions of the others, too, women who try to make life fit their own petty ideas of comfort and vanity and pleasure, and who turn slacker the instant life refuses to fall into the pattern. They want it to be one way, they expect it to be just this or that. Times change, unexpected circumstances arise, trouble comes, and they collapse. They become helpless burdens upon the nearest shoulder; one gets nothing but complaint and protest from them for all the rest of their days.

For example, there is Jean. Pretty, affectionate, happy when Oliver Jones married her, she settled down into a bird-cage of a new cottage charmingly and competently; she could direct a maid, drive a car, give little bridge dinners, buy clothes and have her hair set as efficiently as any girl in her group. Oliver was a successful junior member of his father's real estate firm; everything went well with the young Joneses.

Jean didn't want a baby, but Nature trapped her presently into motherhood and when he arrived she dearly loved her little boy. She had a nurse, and expenses rose alarmingly, but Jean would make no concessions and no changes because of bad times. Bills waited unpaid, Oliver worried and nagged, little Sidney was neglected and sick, but Jean rode serenely over the wreckage, charging purchases, borrowing money, and losing no opportunity to compare Oliver's failing fortunes to those of his clever friends.

Six years ago the whole thing went on the rocks. After the failure of his father's firm, Oliver, after months of anxious searching, finally obtained a job; but it was a humble job, checking shipments for a cannery, and he was paid only $22.50 a week. He had to live in a town Jean didn't know, she said she hated it; he had to give up his club and his car. Jean refused to share these fallen fortunes. She went to her mother. Her mother secretly admires and likes Oliver, and didn't want Jean, but that didn't matter. Jean wanted a home in which she would still be waited upon, in which she could still lie late in bed and have her room kept clean and her dishes washed. She has not divorced Oliver, but she resents his unsuccess and despises him, and he knows it.

A Frenchwoman in her place would be living down near the cannery in one of the rentless cottages attached to the place, making her man good soups and stews, struggling to see that her child was well educated. An Italian woman would accept the change in fortunes philosophically, even gaily; it would be all in the day's work to her, the main thing would be that her man needed her. An Englishwoman usually sticks to her partner through thick and thin; the husband is the important thing, not what happens to the bank account. But not Jean!

Then there is Lucia. Lucia and I were friends when we were quite small girls and we have followed each other's fortunes ever since. Lucia married young, married a rich man ten years older than herself. They built a handsome colonial home and lived in some elegance; Lucia, furred and spoiled and lovely, was the happiest young wife imaginable.

Presently the firm that employed George underwent some serious set-backs, and George was asked to take a lesser salary and invest in the business what capital he had left. Lucia was indignant at the idea, and easily persuaded him that he was being badly treated. Why should they give up their lovely house and their three servants just because old Mr. Smith didn't know how to run his business? George resigned and began to look about for better prospects.

The best of these was a partnership with an old friend who wanted George with him in the medical-supply business. Harry had brains and energy and experience; he wanted George to lend dignity and social value to the venture. It meant moving from Philadelphia to a small manufacturing town, it meant living on a minimum income until the business was well-established; it meant, in short, doing exactly what every successful person in the world has to do at the start.

Lucia refused point-blank to consider it. She said that she hadn't been ten years married, hadn't gotten herself into the nicest set, hadn't taken her part in club and social events and learned to play bridge and golf to be banished now to a place like Millville! George grinned affectionately at her tantrum and conceded that it would be pretty hard on her, and that was the end of that. That was the end of everything. He never had another such chance, he slipped down and down and down. They have two dark rooms in a dark crowded street now, a dreadful street of pretenses and disappointments and shabby gentilities. Lucia is a bitterly thwarted woman; she feels that life has dealt cruelly with her. "Of all the men I knew twenty-five years ago," she says over and over again, "I had to choose a failure!"

And so it goes with hundreds and hundreds of wives. They bargain for marriage on certain terms, and when those terms are not met they will make no changes, no adjustments whatever. They want to live in a certain street, and to have and do certain things; under these circumstances they will be reasonably affectionate and amiable, and contribute something, if not much, to the comfort of those about them. But threaten to disturb them, and they show themselves for the soft little cats they are, wanting idleness and petting and a warm corner, and not caring particularly who supplies them, and whining and crying when they are taken away.

Such women never see that changes, even painful and humiliating changes, are often the gateway to great adventures and successes. They may have heard some such theory in school days, they may have written, "Sweet are the uses of adversity," in their copy books, and learned, "Then welcome each rebuff that turns each earth's smoothness rough," in English class, but nothing of it really penetrated to their minds, nothing changed the selfish tight little boundaries of their souls.

Some years ago I met such a wife at a dinner. Her husband was talking to us of China, and the opportunity had been offered to go and help with some research work there. The woman smiled blandly, indulgently, as he enlarged upon this glorious opening, but presently she said firmly: "You may as well give up the idea now, Tom. I simply will not go one step. You'll stay right here; this is where our friends are, and this is the only place in the world where I can be happy!"

So they stayed at home, and bad times came, and the whole world went to pieces, and there were no more adventures at all for the unimaginative wife and her Tom. They moved into a boarding house, where the wife mopes and complains and stagnates to this day; Tom meanwhile trying to sell fire insurance from door to door.

On the other hand there are women left, and perhaps plenty of them, who see life for what it is, a brief period in which change is growth, and the thing that does not move does not live.

Women have more power than men in marriage. A timid, lazy, selfish husband is not often able to destroy his wife's life; she rises above him and carves out her own way. But men are more helpless; the attitude of American men is indulgent and admiring toward their women; they are in the habit of obeying. Which makes it all the more of a tragedy that so few women are sports!

YOUTH LOOKS AT MIDDLE AGE

A CHARMING young freshman with his bobbed curly hair sat facing me across my desk one morning recently. She had failed in mathematics. "Did you ever fail in high school?" I asked. "Yes, once," she answered, "but that was the teacher's fault." "Why do you think so?" I inquired. "Because she was too old to teach," came the ready response. "Too old? How old was she?" Young seventeen looked out of the window with narrowed eyelids, and thinking a moment, came back with this remark: "If she was a day, she was thirty-five." The surprise was like a cold dip to me, for I, too, was above thirty-five. I drew her into conversation about her teacher, and discovered the following. "She rarely smiled," said the girl, "the students annoyed her and became afraid of her. She not only refused invitations to our parties, but ridiculed them; she was always criticizing youth. This is why I am sure she was too old to teach." In my heart I agreed with this child before me, for "age is a thing of the spirit, not years." One can never reach the heart of youth by negative criticism alone. Praise and encouragement warm their hearts and make them grow. For "the way to make a man is to think him one." The process we call "growing old" does not mean withdrawal from joy and happiness. Rather it is fulfillment of life's richest experiences.

We all have seen men and women past the sixties who are twenty years young, whose capacity for deep enjoyment and self-realization far surpasses that of inexperienced youth. Youth should be taught that life is a progression, of which youth is not the apex. It is wrong to tell youth their "teen time" is the happiest, for this is untrue. Adolescence is the most carefree time, but who wants to live continuously without life's obligations? Just as the sunset brings deeper colors than the dawn, the fall trees and flowers richer shades than spring, so is this growing old, "the best of all" yet to be, the last for which the first was made.

Lives like this grow more radiant as the years pass. When we cease to grow, we begin to grow old. This is the secret, let us keep our hearts young even though our hair grows gray.

Be a good animal, but don't be a lower one.

Some people depend more on their clothes than on themselves.

Mill Hitched to the Moon

REMEMBER the old admonition to "hitch your wagon to a star"? Caleb Hodgdon did better than that. He hitched his mill to the moon and for 111 years the moon has been running the mill for him and his descendants.

It was back in 1825 that Caleb, sailing down the coast of Maine, reached the mouth of the Damariscotta river and saw a 40-acre natural pond which opened into the river through a very narrow outlet. This perfect tidal basin was filled and emptied twice a day by the sea, and since the moon controls the tide, it is literally true that Caleb Hodgdon hitched his mill to the moon.

Caleb built a dam and a bridge which are still in use today. He installed the old type undershot waterwheel to run his mill and used it as power for grinding grain as well as sawing lumber. He bought acres of timberland, sent crews into the woods to fell the trees, snaked them down to the river with oxen, then at high tide float them into his mill pond. Next he added a shipyard and built ships from the lumber which he had sawed.

Later generations of Hodgsons continued to operate the mill and shipyard, and one of the products of the latter was the schooner, Bowdoin, which Commander Donald B. MacMillan used in his Arctic explorations. Later Hodgsons also replaced the undershot waterwheel with a turbine but the principle of operation of the mill is the same with it as with the waterwheel. When the tide rises, it forces open the gates in the dam which Caleb built and fills the pond. When the tide is on the ebb the doors automatically close and the water is prevented from flowing out of the pond except through the turbines of the mill.

Go to East Boothbay, Maine, today and you can see the mill which Caleb Hodgdon built and hitched to the moon.

Terracing, Soil Contouring and Conservation Increasing

COLLEGE STATION — Terraces were built on 67,255 acres of land and in addition 4,079 acres of pastures were protected from soil and water loss by terraces, contour lists and erosion dams in 19 Central West Texas Counties under the supervision of county agricultural agents during 1936.

These figures, according to C. E. Bowles, district agent in charge of agricultural work in these counties show a great increase over the ones for 1935 due in large part to the preparation of 12,232 farmers in the 1936 agricultural conservation program.

County machinery was used by commissioners to construct terraces on 38,815 acres at cost, which is an increase of 168 per cent over the acreage terraced with county machinery in 1935. Estimated cost of terraces built up to specifications of the Extension Service—24 to 36 feet wide and at least 18 inches high—was $1.00 per acre.

Measurement of the farms listed under work sheets of the agricultural conservation program show that 306,000 acres of land were planted in 1936 to soil building crops which also tend to prevent erosion by wind and water. Included in this total are 64,520 acres of legumes.

Five boys from the district won trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago with expenses paid because of the excellence of their work. Gold medals and other honors went to boys in almost every one of the 19 counties in recognition of their accomplishments.

"Listen, Folks"

BY JIM FERGUSON

(Editor's Note: This article is published as a news item, and represents the personal views of Mr. Ferguson only).

LEGISLATIVE PROPOSITIONS

Some fellow has said that hash was the remains of things unseen and the evidence of things hoped for. There are many things now before the legislature that have their origin in issues of other days and which will not materialize the hopes of the taxpayers.

We can't eat our cake and have it too. And yet, we hear our legislative statesmen crying out in one breath for big appropriations and against high taxes to pay them with in the next. And then we hear in as loud demand the cry for economy and for the legislature to buy everything under the sun at the same time. The Governor has said that we don't need any new taxes and now he says we need millions for new things. In other words, one crowd wants to spend but they don't want to pay, and the other crowd say they want to pay but they won't agree to buy.

Let me cite a few instances to illustrate what is going on in the rehash of old issues in the legislature.

Representative Mauritz wants to abolish all state and county taxes for general revenue purposes, but he does not tell us either what he will do with the people who draw their salaries out of this fund now or who he will tax to get money to pay this apparent saving to the taxpayer. While he wants to set up economy he don't tell us whether he is going to pull the house down on us. While we would all like to abolish ad valorem taxes, before we make the change we ought to know what taxes, if any, we will levy and collect to make up the difference. If Mr. Mauritz will agree to make up this nine million with a sales tax, I will be glad to go with him. The general revenue fund is now some 16 million in the red and if provision is not made to pay and ad valorem taxes are abolished, then the overdraft will never be paid and warrants on that fund will be worthless.

Then here comes some bright young statesman who wants to levy a franchise income tax of 5 per cent on all corporations. The bill is aimed mainly at oil and the public utilities. This sounds good and it is good political dope of the "share the wealth" and "scak the rich" kind. I freely agree that with the ever increasing activities of the government from the purchase of baby diapers to a $15,000 football coach that we can expect some increase in taxes. But while we are enforcing the government take, let us not forget that in the end Jones will pay the freight. Let us not forget that where we raise the franchise tax on the telegraph or the telephone company we arm them with the argument to come before the tax authorities and claim a proportionate raise in our monthly bills, and they will make it a plenty.

If we raise the tax to 10 cents a barrel on oil as some legislators want to do, then we should not kick if gasoline goes up to 25 cents, because the cost of material is allowed to be deducted in determining the cost to the consumer. They say this franchise income tax will produce 12 million dollars. If it will, then there will be an average raise to every consumer of $2.00 on every man, woman and child of the six million people of Texas. If the legislature just don't want to pay all the old people over 65 the full $15.00 a month voted by the people, I appeal to them, especially all those who were elected on a promise of liberal pensions, to submit a constitutional amendment this year on whether they are willing to levy a 2 per cent sales tax all of which to be used to pay the full pension without objection or red tape embarrassment.

This will settle the question and will get rid of this horde of tit suckers that is now taking the bread out of the mouths of mothers and fathers that ought to have the full pension that the people voted.

The head of the pension department under this administration now says that he is in favor of denying the right and privilege of the ballot to all who draw the pension. And yet, they say it is not a pauper law.

LIONS GOVERNOR VISITED HAMLIN

Tuesday the Hamlin Lions Club was delighted with a visit of their District Governor, Lion Elmer D. Elliott of Dalhart. He is the high officer of District 2-T of Texas, and from what a few of the Hamlin fellows say of him he is as big as his great district. Just what Mr. Elliott said to our fellows, we can't say, but evidently he made a hit of some kind with them.

Hamlin's Lions are classed high up in their district, but of late they have not "roared" much. Maybe they do not want to keep everlastingly at "roaring" as it is a well known fact that any noise becomes dulled. But a big fellow like Elliott can't come into a quiet little community like Hamlin and not be heard. Let's have him back again, Lions.
